Sherwood and Taylor Decline School Board Nominations

Both renominated for positions — Names placed in nomination include three women for first time in school history — Budget of $62,000 approved—$20,000 to be raised by local tax—Board to seek election and annual meeting at same time.

Henry Sherwood and Lynn Taylor are leaving the Addison Board of Education. Both were renominated to serve another term at the annual school meeting held Tuesday night in the high school. Both men declined.

There were 24 taxpayers and parents of school students present at this meeting out of a possible 600 who should have attended to pass judgment on the budget of $62,000 which is to be spent in this district during the coming school year. Of this sum to be expended $20,000 is to be raised by local taxation.

Among those present were Dr. M. F. Whitmore, president of the Board of Education and the following members: Lynn Taylor, Henry Sherwood, Harry Laffkas, Maurice Miller, Charles F. Park, John Russ, Clark Baxter and Mrs. Florence Newman. One teacher was present.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Newman, this being the annual meeting and she read the call for the meeting, of the Union Free School District. John Russ was elected temporary chairman and Mrs. Newman was elected clerk of the meeting. Clare Chart and Willis Colburn were elected tellers.

The financial report of the school district was read by Mrs. Newman. This has already appeared in the columns of this paper as has the proposed budget, which was adopted. M. G. Hubbs asked how the budget of this year compared with last and he was told the tax rate would be the same.

Dr. Whitmore stated there had been a difference in amounts for the past two years owing to the wrong figuring on the amount of public monies to be received. The difference amounted to $900 last year and $800 this year.

The notice for the school election was read by Mrs. Newman. One library trustee was to be elected in place of Mrs. Carolyn Grange and three school trustees in place of Dr. Whitmore, Mr. Sherwood and Mr. Taylor. Charles Park moved the trio be renominated to succeed themselves. This was seconded.

Mr. Taylor stated he was not a candidate and Mr. Sherwood told the members he did not wish to be considered a candidate. Mr. Hubbs said the men deserved a vote of thanks of the school district for their work on the board.

Mr. Hubbs then continued, that there were no women on the board, they are on juries and in other legislative councils but none have been proposed for the local board and he said, "I think women should be represented and I nominate Mrs. Susan D. Perry. This was seconded by Mr. Sherwood.

Mr. Park placed in nomination the name of Miss Fannie Curtis, a former instructor. This was sec-

Parking and Taillights Need Attention

Conditions are improving in Addison states Chief Elmer Bovee. However he states there are some violators of local ordinances. Especially in the matter of parking improperly in Main Street. The offenders are not all visitors to the village, but many local people, who should set the example for visitors.

He also calls atention to the matter of headlights and taillights. The Chief says there are many motor car operators who have defective head and tail lights which must be remedied or drastic action will have to be taken for the protection of other motor drivers on the highways.

Word has been received in Addison of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Tuller of Rochester, June 8. Mrs. Tuller was formerly Miss Helen Magoon. The baby has been named Barbara Lore.

Village Board Discusses Fire Companies and Floods

Most of Monday session occupied by talk of Welles and Phoenix Hose Company requests for fire truck to attend convention—Charles Vose adult education program given use of room — Ernest Sareen addresses group—Flood control and costs reviewed.

Members of the Village Board extricated themselves from a very embarrassing situation Monday night by flipping a coin to decide a momentous question.

It seems the Mayor had granted permission to the Welles Hose company fireman to use that truck to attend the Firemen's Convention at Bath next month. Members of the Phoenix Hose Company attended the Board meeting to make a formal request to take the Phoenix truck to the same convention. Inasmuch as both trucks cannot leave the village at once, and the mayor had granted permission and the board did not know what to do, a coin was flipped. The Phoenix men will ride to and at the convention parade.

Monday's meeting was called to order with Mayor Angelo Sisto presiding, clerk Wilfred Miller and Trustees Clark, Phelps and Allen being present. Mr. Orr was absent.

The following bills were audited and ordered paid: Herrington Garage, $5.50; William Kittle, cement, $29.40; Addison Home Phone Company, $10.50; M. G. Hubbs, battery charger and equipment, $16.55; Norman Rogers, sand and gravel, $2.89; John O'Keefe, marking streets, $5.48; Mary Hibbard, cleaning City Hall, $3.50; John O'Keefe, marking streets, $$11.20; Steuben Water Works, $433.75 for quarter year ending June 30; lighting bill, $249.50 for month of June.

Fire Chief John O'Keefe requested six rubber coats for the Phoenix Hose Company while six are being purchased for the Welles Company at the request of Walter Aldrich, who put in his request after Chief O'Keefe left the June meeting, according to Chief O'Keefe, Trustee Allen asked if six coats were not purchased recently for the Phoenix Company and he was told that three of these coats went to the Welles Company. The six additional coats will be purchased.

Mr. O'Keefe acted as spokesman for members of the Phoenix Hose Company, in the absence of an official spokesman for that company, requesting the loan of the village fire truck for the Firemen's convention in Bath. This participated an argument which continued nearly an hour. Phoenix men contended Welles men had ridden a truck at the last two conventions at Elmira Heights and Corning and felt they were entitled to ride now. They also stated that they could not get enough men out to make a decent showing in marching.

Mayor Sisto said, "I hate to refuse any of you but one truck must be left in town". He asked why the men of the two companies could not cooperate and all ride on one truck. Phoenix men present said they would not mind, but felt the Welles men would not let them ride.

Chief O'Keefe said he offered to organize one department several years ago with 15 picked firemen, but objections arose as the firemen said they were public spirited citizens volunteering their services. Mayor Sisto said, "I'm in a mess, for I promised Welles men that they could have the truck and now I find I had not the authority.

At this point, Walter Aldrich, Welles Hose spokesman and assistant chief was brought to the meet-

Bovee's Car Equipped With Revolving Light

Through the generosity of the Towner Brothers in the Wall Street Garage, Chief of Police Elmer Bovee is riding his motor car with a new all duty search light. This is one more handy accoutrement to the prowl car used by Chief Bovee in his work about Addison and vicinity. This revolving light will mean much to the Chief in getting into alleys and lanes where the car headlights point 'straight ahead and he would be unable to see. The light will also be good in other emergencies.

THE WORKERS WIN

All local people who are convinced that free men have the right to freely go to their jobs and work for an honest living, are glad that the workingmen of Elkland have effectually repelled the CIO invasion of our neighboring village. The Lewis group tried their usual methods of intimidation and assault upon the loyal Elkland Tannery workers without great effect. Elkland men would not be scared when threatened, nor were they kept from their work by the gang of hoodlums and imported gangsters that hurled rocks and beat them. They went right on to work, heeding the advice of the tannery official not to resort to violent reprisals. And now the CIO attempt to force tannery workers to pay dues into its coffers has apparently ended in an ignominious failure. Elkland people are still running Elkland affairs without any dictation from the pug-faced miner, John L. Lewis.

As a matter of fact the American triumvirate which believed a few months ago that it had seized industry where the hair is short, are finding out that American men and women have become highly indignant at the wholesale attempts made to keep honest men from their work. Mail by the truckload has been pouring in protest into Washington, and much of it is said to be written by housewives aroused to fighting pitch because their husbands have been prevented from going to work by the gangster unions. So Madam Perkins has suddenly discovered that the sit-down strike is not a legal weapon for strikers to use. Mr. Roosevelt has been pricked to the point he said that he and Charley Taft believed the people thought "a plague on both your houses". And the mop-haired Lewis is chewing his finger nails wh[illegible] he wonders how those Democratic governors dare[illegible] insult him by calling out troops to permit steel workers to march to their jobs past the CIO pickets.

Doubtless it b[illegible]s Lewis up to think that he lent a half mi[illegible] dollars to help elect Roosevelt last fall, an[illegible] the latter has failed to call out the [illegible]vy to defend the CIO warfare to tie up industrial America. Lewis should have remembered what happened to some other allies of the President when the pinch came. On the Senate floor the other day a member of the President's own party accused him of being a "rank ingrate". Senator Wheeler said that Roosevelt never could have been nominated in Chicago if the late Senator Long had not swung over the support of the southern delegation, yet the Administration henchmen later persecuted Long. Wheeler said that despite the fact Senator Cutting worked for Roosevelt's election the latter sent speakers into New Mexico to campaign against Cutting because he opposed the President on one bill.

The recent strikes are showing Lewis his friend trims sails the way the wind blows. Meanwhile the people are learning that freedom to work when they wish, is one of the inherent rights of Americans. It is more valuable than all the crack-pot schemes hatched up by the New Dealers during their rule of the nation.

Because the people of Elkland have analyzed the true meaning and intention of the CIO they have wisely chosen to run their own affairs.

ROCKS AHEAD

Once more the end of a fiscal year has been reached by the United States Treasury, and once more the national debt has been elevated to a more dangerous level by a big deficit. The deficit for the past year was two billion, seven hundred seven million dollars, boosting the debt to $36,400,000,000.

And still there is not the slightest sign that Roosevelt is even attempting to balance the national budget. It is true that government spending was nearly a half billion less than for the year ending July 1st, 1936, but during that period the biggest payment on the soldiers bonus was made. So in reality money was shoveled out of the treasury for the purposes of the Roosevelt Bureaucracy at a faster rate than ever before. The President in trying to justify the big deficit told reporters more than a billion had been used in sterilizing gold coming from abroad, and that when foreigners want it back again the government has an asset. This statement is merely one more utterance by a man who has repeatedly showed himself to be a spendthrift with other people's money.

It is true the government has been piling up a huge supply of gold, so great a heap that it has been deemed necessary to transport it to great inland, underground vaults. But that gold has been purchased at artificial prices that are fifty per cent mor than its actual value on world markets for centuries in the past. In the New Deal attempt to artificially boost prices the government raised the price of gold from $22 to $35 an ounce and has held it there ever since. The results have been two-fold. Gold mining syndicates in this country, in South Africa, Canada and other countries as well as the Soviet State itself, have speeded up production of low yield mines and reaped enormous profits dumping useless gold on Uncle Sam. It has boosted prices to inflationary heights. And our poor old uncle has been forced to do the bidding of this brainless group of Brain Trusters until he has become the laughing stock of the entire world.

What will be the final result? The Administration is as barren of an answer to that one as we ourselves. The Treasury now knows it grabbed a bull by the tail when it started gold prices raising, but it dare not let loose of that tail. Setting an arbitrarily higher price upon its own gold supply the Treasury apparently made a large book profit which, in the case of devaluation of the precious metal would be wiped out, thus further boosting the huge national debt. Yet to continue this crazy purchase of all the world gold offered simply adds to our monetary danger by increasing our federal borrowing. And still Roosevelt is more concerned about his political fortunes than he is about the financial peril of the nation.

It is high time the Congress awoke to this peril and stripped the executive of some of this power he has been gaining from legislative hands the last four years. Unless Congress does dare apply the brakes to reckless Roosevelt spending we are headed toward far more dangerous rocks than we have encountered since 1929.

THE DRIVE FOR SOCIALISM

The political drive to extend socialism in the United States is never-ending.

One of the latest attempts is in California where a law has been passed by the legislature which does away with the requirement of a two-thirds vote to carry bond issues for public improvements and municipal ownership experiments. The new law would require only a majority vote, but once the town was launched on the experiment it could not get rid of it except by a two-thirds vote.

In other words, the new law makes it easier to get into debt, but just as hard to get out as at present. Public debt in California has increased greatly even with the protection of the two-thirds vote.

The bill is now being held up by a referendum to give the people a chance to express their opinion on such legislation.

The measure seems to play righ[illegible] [illegible]ds of professional promoters of reven[illegible] for underwriting commissions. It, esp[illegible] the gate to local communities with bu[illegible] mon carriers, pipe lines, gas systems, [illegible] systems, telephone systems, water systems, [illegible] age services, warehouse services and heat [illegible]

Of course, the measure is publicized as one to encourage municipal ownership of electric plants. But worthy municipal projects have not found it difficult under the "two-thirds" rule, to become established.

The new law simply makes experiments easier and failures harder to get out of. It permits establishment of socialistic ventures by a majority vote, but prohibits a corrective measure except by a two-thirds vote. This, in itself, is enough to show the insincerity and unfairness of the law.

HAPPINESS OR MISERY???

"What of a deficit?" This was the question asked of a Western governor. The laconic reply was: "It's the difference betweem happiness and misery".

It is a tragic fact that more public officials are not farsighted enough to envision the consequences of a program of bigger and bigger deficits.

Not long ago the Federal government attempted to make a slight reduction in the relief rolls. What happened? Governors from six states "marched" on Washington with the demand that Federal largess be continued unabated. Surely these governors realized the necessity of getting the Federal financial house in order. Surely they realized that the public debt has doubled in a few short years. Surely they realized that "deficit financing" by the Federal government cannot continue indefinitely. And surely they must have realized the plain fact, as so aptly stated by the Western governor, that continued deficits will only result in misery—misery for all the people.

ARE YOU INDIFFERENT TO SLAUGHTER

Automobile accidents can be reduced. Death on the highways can be stopped.

Last year, traffic fatalities reached an all-time high of 38,500. Yet 18 states and the District of Columbia showed an average reduction of 7 per cent in deaths—even though gasoline consumption, best barometer of traffic conditions, increased 10 per cent.

These states weren't "just lucky". Chance didn't save the lives of their citizens. According to the National Safety Council, all but two of the states carry on aggressive programs of safety engineering, law enforcement, education, legislation, etc. The same authority reports that in half of the remaining 30 states next to nothing is done to prevent the Grim Reaper's grisly harvest.

There are two prime causes of automobile accidents. One is the reckless, incompetent and dangerous driver. He can be curbed to some extent by up-to-date traffic laws that are honestly and rigidly enforced.

The other cause is dangerous roads; "accident prone" locations—bad intersections, bad shoulders, narrow highways without dividing areas, etc. Here the highway engineer must be called in to eliminate such needless hazards and thus make it virtually impossible to have an accident.

"Make our town safe", should be a community motto. It's high time, as the New York Times says, that we "shook off our comparative national indifference to this man-made evil . . . and begin safety campaigns in earnest".

Gen. J[illegible]on Is Urged to Name "Machi[illegible]uiding Roosevelt

[illegible] SULLIVAN

[illegible] man to the Presi-[illegible] right old soldier—[illegible] is all right, but that some of the people around him are [illegible].

The general doesn't mean Cabinet members, nor heads of departments, nor the President's official secretaries. He doesn't mean members of Congress, nor anybody like that.

He means the persons who are really close to Mr. Roosevelt. He means the President's real intimates, persons who are in and out of the White House continually; persons who have the President's ear, who understand the President's temperament and moods, who entertain him when he wants entertainment, and on other occasions stir him up, and at all times influence him.

It is these, the general says, who are doing all the dreadful things. It is they who write the bills, filled with "adroit obscurities," which Congress passes without detecting the trick clauses and therefore without realizing what the statutes will do in practice. The general calls them "Machiavellis." He says that—acting through their influence with Roosevelt, but without Mr. Roosevelt's realizing—the Machiavellis are making over the American government into "the most dangerous on earth." The general says they are going to choose Mr. Roosevelt's successor and he "shudders to think" of the changed government in the hands of the successor whom the Machiavellis will choose. "The stark cleverness of this gang," says the general, "is getting away with murder."

The general is seriously disturbed about them. He says—which is true—that the late Louis M. Howe used to stand between Mr. Roosevelt and this kind of advisers, or prevent the President from acting on their suggestions. The general feels that "this country suffered its greatest loss in the death of Louis Howe."

The general is right rough with 'em. He says they are "cynically adroit." They are "an incarnadined junta of self-styled intelligentsia." They live in a "pinkish intellectual bagnio." He calls them esoteric epithets. One of them he calls a "brilliant odalisque" and another a "political houri." Another is a "Scheherezade."

I wonder, by the way, if the general, when he hurled these epithets, understood the literal meaning of them. The general has a first-class familiarity with all literature, including the Arabic and the Byzantine, and he must know just what an odalisque and a houri and a Scheherazade are. Any one who looks those words up in the dictionary will get a smile—and a smile these days is worth taking some trouble to get. Probably the general was in a soldierly rage and was not paying any attention to the literal meaning of his epithets.

The general cusses 'em out good and plenty. He calls them all the names I have quoted and he describes their minds and their experiences. He says: "To them the Constitution is a musty and useless relic. Most of them once had money and lost it through their innocence of practical or horse-sense. Accordingly—to them—owning anything is a crime. Methods of making any money whatever are evil conspiracies. Anybody who so much as owns the roof over his head, or doesn't agree with them, is an obscenity."

The general describes them and epithetizes them, and anathematizes them; and otherwise excoriates them. But the general doesn't name them. The country, outside of Washington, must be curious to know their names and the personal histories the general hints at. In Washington most of us know pretty well, or can make fair surmises about who the general means. I think I know who the general means, but I won't name them here. I can't print another writer's anonymous epithets and then supply the names on my responsibility.

But you name 'em, Hugh. You've got more courage than I have. You're a soldier, courage comes natural to you. Name 'em, Hugh, name 'em. Name them all and tell just what are their individual roles in the Machiavellian making over of the American government into "the most dangerous on earth."

General Johnson, speaking of himself as "this column," tells what is ahead:

"This column would not be much afraid of such a system with Roosevelt as President. But it does not believe this was his design and—with him gone—it shudders to think of such a system in the hands of the Machiavellis whose design it was—or their choice of his successor."

Incidentally, since modern Machiavellis are at work, here is a quotation from the old Italian master himself. It can be read with profit by President Roosevelt and by the American people:

"Let no man who begins an innovation in a state think that he can stop it at his pleasure or control it at his will."

The Great Filibuster

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Having been defeated in the first attempt to pack the Federal courts, the Administration is now confronting us with another scheme to achieve its ends in another way. The original bill would have given the President the power to appoint six justices of the Supreme Court immediately; the proposed "compromise" gives him the power to appoint three judges within the next six months—one in place of Mr. Justice Van Devanter, one supplementary judge for 1937 and one for 1938. It would give him the power to appoint at least four judges within eighteen months, and more if there are resignations or deaths.

This new scheme differs from the first one only in that Mr. Roosevelt cannot pack the court immediately; he must be satisfied to pack it a little more slowly. But he is given authority to pack it, and to make himself the virtual master of the judiciary before the end of his present term.

This is in no sense of the word an honest compromise, and at bottom the new proposal is as devious and as deceptive as its predecessor. On the pretense that age is a disqualification, this new bill provides a device for the seizure of the court. Its object is to compel the court to express the will of the executive. It seeks to accomplish a fundamental change in the basic law of the land by the act of a bare legislative majority. It violates the platform on which that majority was elected. And it deprives the American people of their sovereign right to pass upon the constitutional structure of their government.

The new scheme is entirely unacceptable and must be resisted to the bitter end.

The principle at stake and the procedure of the Administration do not merely justify a filibuster; they call for a filibuster. The Senators who are in the opposition should have no qualms whatsoever in proclaiming to the American people that they will employ every parliamentary rule at their disposal to prevent this bill from being enacted in this Congress and to prevent the confirmation of any judges who might be appointed under it. They should tell the people plainly that they intend to obstruct this measure in order to give the voters a chance to pass upon it. They should declare as plainly and emphatically as they can that they will conduct a filibuster in order to preserve for the people their sovereign right to settle the issue.

In taking this stand their moral position will be impregnable. This Congress has no mandate to pack the courts or to tamper with the Constitution and the courts. On the contrary, it was elected on the understanding, and after express assurances in the platform and explicit guaranties from acknowledged spokesmen, that nothing of this sort would be attempted. In conducting a filibuster to prevent this Congress from violating their promises, the Senators will merely be faithful to their pledges and loyal to the principles of Democratic government. They will be fighting against a brazen attempt to violate a pledge, and against a devious attempt to circumvent Democratic procedure.

Let them have no fears about the capacity of the American people to understand the reasons for the filibuster. Let there be nothing shamefaced or apologetic about the filibuster. They are confronted with an attempt to change the constitutional balance of the government by usurpation; they are confronted with a completely arbitrary use of power to drive a reluctant Congress to violate its pledges and to degrade its conscience. They need have no fear that if they stand firm and fight boldly that the people will not see that it is patriotic to obstruct faithlessness and that it is noble to resist usurpation.

The sponsors of this proposal have been routed in debate and they refuse to submit the issue to the judgment of the people. They are proposing to use money, patronage, and party discipline to settle the issue. To fight that, to stand up and refuse to let this thing be done, to obstruct, delay, and oppose this invasion, is in the highest degree honorable, and those who have a part in the fight will take their places in the company of the gallant men who have established our liberties and have preserved them.

The issue is very simple. Nothing must be done by legislative act of this Congress which in any degree grants to the President extraordinary powers over the Federal judiciary. On that there can be no compromise. There is ample room for accommodation on any kind of constitutional amendment. For amendments are submitted to the people. But this Congress, having no mandate from the people to tamper with the courts, being under pledges diametrically opposed to attempts to impair the independence of the courts, must not be permitted to impair that independence by any device whatsoever.

No good reason has ever been alleged why this measure must pass now. The powers of the Federal government have been greatly extended; they are ample for any legislation that this Congress will really wish to enact. There is no objection to the obstruction of a filibuster. There are no measures held up by it that urgently need to be passed.

So on moral grounds and on practical grounds it can be said of the opposition Senators that their principal is fundamental, that their cause is just, and that they are about to fight a good fight for the preservation of American liberties.

National Grange Will Convene At Harrisburg in November

A great coming event of interest to the rural people of America, and especially to all members of the Grange organization, is the 71st annual session of the National Grange, which is to be held this year at Harrisburg, Pa., and whose dates are November 10-18. An expected attendance of upwards of 15,000 Grange members will make the city of Harrisburg a busy place for ten days, and rarely has any convention been held which brought together more people from the farms than will be true in Harrisburg.

Thirty-five voting states will be represented in the National Grange session this year, reaching all the way from Maine to Oregon and from Minnesota to Texas. Thousands of members will drive their own cars to Harrisburg, and within a day's driving distance of that city live more than 300,000 members of the Grange; New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio being the three largest states in point of membership.

The "high spot" of the Grange convention will be on Friday, November 12, when the climax degree of the Order (the Seventh) will be conferred four times during the day, with an expected total class of fully 10,000 candidates. Already large numbers of Grange members in many states are looking toward Harrisburg and the opportunity there to advance to the topmost round of Grange ritualism. At the Hartford Ct., session three years ago, the Seventh Degree class numbered almost 13,000 candidates, following a class nearly as large in 1930, when the convention was held in Rochester, N. Y.

The Harrisburg convention will earnestly consider many of the grave problems confronting the nation, especially as they affect agriculture and the rural welfare. Nation-wide interest will await the declaration of the National Grange on many important issues, and the policies adopted at Harrisburg will furnish the basis for Grange activities during the year to follow.

In preparation for the Harrisburg session and the giving of the Seventh Degree, State Master J. A. Boak of Pennsylvania is arranging for a series of special meetings of the Pennsylvania State Grange for conferring the sixth degree, and these will be held in all parts of the Keystone state, bringing the degree opportunity within easy reach of the entire Pennsylvania membership. There will be at least a score of these special occasions, and they are likely to be accompanied by intense interest and much enthusiasm.

Prominent leaders in national affairs will address the Harrisburg session; all departments of Grange activities in the national body will be reported upon; and, in conjunction with the session, sight-seeing trips to Gettysburg, Valley Forge and other historic Pennsylvania spots will be arranged for the entertainment of the delegates.

Farm Bureau Offers Instruction in Poultry Culling

Professor L. M. Hurd of the College of Agriculture will give instruction in poultry culling at four meetings to be offered by the Steuben County Farm Bureau next week Thursday and Friday.

The first will be held on the farm of John Hewlett of Bath and begins ten o'clock Thursday, July 22. The meeting in the afternoon of the same day at two o'clock will be at the farm of Fayette VanWormer of Wallace.

On Friday, July 23, Professor Hurd will be at the farm of Leon Dennis, Canisteo, the meeting to begin at ten o'clock. A similar meeting will be held in the afternoon of the same day on the Charles Burlingame farm at Campbell.

The demonstrations were requested by the poultry committee of the farm bureau for the purpose of creating interest in culling, and to offer instruction in the valuable practice.

Have Chance to Renew Old Times

The chance to visit old friends and places, to renew friendships, and to see again such familiar spots as the homestead, the school, the church, the Grange hall, and the village green is afforded during the season of "Old Home Days" which will be underway through this section for the next few weeks.

Somewhere on the program should be an opportunity to challenge the community to make some major improvement during the year ahead, says Hugh J. Williams of the State College of Agriculture and executive director of the Tompkins County Development Association.

A new school building, or improvement to the present building and grounds; the organization of a community council; and increasing the facilities for wholesome play for children, young people and adults are suggested examples. Such suggestions for local improvements should be discussed by community leaders to determine if they are practical and timely, Mr. Williams says. Relatives and friends who live elsewhere may also be interested in any move for community improvement.

"Old Home Day is a good time to honor those persons who have worked many years to make the community a better place in which to live. Instead of waiting to make eulogies when death takes these good friends, why not express our appreciation now?" he asks.

"Some of the best things that have happened in the community during the year, he says, may well be repeated on the Old Home Day program: a good play by the 4-H club, an exhibition by the boy scouts or girl scouts, musical numbers by the school glee club or community chorus, a folk dance by members of the Grange, or a demonstration by the ladies of the home bureau. Handicraft of school pupils may be on display, such as samples of freehand drawings, maps, furniture and tools made in the school shop, and clothing made by the girls in school.

"A hobby show is always interesting. Grown-ups as well as children like to display their stamp and coin collections, old glass, rare books and pictures, antique jewelry, collections of butterflies and insects, mounted specimens of local native flowers, and collections of minerals. Care should be taken to protect these exhibits. A flower show, too, adds interest to the program, both for adults and children, but competition for prizes is not desirable as many who do not win would be disappointed".

Indians first farmed the land which will be visited by New York vegetables growers on their annual summer tour in the vicinity of Elmira on Wednesday, July 21. A diversity of crops is grown in that section of the state.

Uncle Ab says that the folks who always ask questions never seem to learn the answers.

FRUIT, FLOWERS AND GARDEN

Summer Mulches
S. E. Wadsworth

To get the most out of a flower garden, use a summer mulch which not only helps to conserve moisture and serves as an insulator, but also keeps the garden nearly weedless.

Apply the mulch shortly after the plants are put into the ground. Water the plants several times after they are set to make sure they become established. Then put on the mulch. A good time is after the soil has been moistened with a heavy shower. A two inch layer of mulching material suffices.

Among materials that may be used are peat moss, shredded sugar cane, and rice hulls, which have been tried out at Cornell. None of the materials tested is ideal, but they all have great value, especially to young annuals and perennials where much of the soil is exposed to drying action of the sun.

Other materials that may be used as summer mulches, but which were not tested, are leaf mold, lawn clippings, and buckwheat hulls.

In the experiments, during an 18-day rainless period last summer, the bare soil contained only four per cent moisture, which is not enough for the plants to live. Mulched plots, however, had from three to four times as much moisture in the soil.

CROSSING ACCIDENTS INCREASE THIS YEAR

Fatalities resulting from highway- railroad grade crossing accidents in the first three months this year totaled 495, an increase of 99 compared wih the corresponding period last year, it is announced by the Safety Section of the Association of American Railroads.

DeWitt Candidate For Constitutional Convention

Benjamin Dewitt prominent Hornell manufacturer and farmer is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Republican candidacy to the State Constitutional Convention to be held in Albany next year.

He has long been affiliated with Republican affairs in the western part of the county and was state committeeman for several years. In addition he is an active member of the Masonic fraternity. His specialty in farming is Ayrshire cattle. Mr. Benjamin is the third candidate in the field, the first being Charles Crane of Addison and the second Clyde Shults also of Hornell.

School Bus Drivers Face New Rules

So that school children may ride in "absolute safety" to and from their schools, the state department of education has established a new set of rules governing school bus drivers.

Besides being 21 years of age or over, physically fit and possessors of fine characters, drivers must, be "tactful in the management of children".

Full stops at railroad crossings and at state highway intersections must be made as well as before making a left-hand turn. Pupils must not be permitted to leave or enter the bus while it is in motion or to thrust their arms out of the windows. Gas tanks must never be filled unless the bus is empty.

Canoes Thing of Past On Canisteo River

What happened to all the canoes on the Canisteo River? And also the motor boats? Crossing the Main Street bridge in the twilight of these summer evenings and seeing the placid waters of that stream with the colorful banks, makes one want to glide swiftly over the calm waters into the setting sun.

In past decades there were many colorful canoes on the water and the chug, chug, of motor boats could be heard on any evening. Even the good old fashioned wood row boats with the creaking of the oarlocks has disappeared, except for an occasional fisherman.

There is a calmness that comes to the operator of a canoe on quiet and still waters. There is a picture in the swift movement of the boat as it leaves a series of ripples in its rear and there is beauty in the grace of the movements of the canoist as he paddles along and maintains his balance.

The motor car has done away with the slow speed of the canoe days and row boat days. Swift power boats are also in demand. But for real enjoyment, calmness and pleasure for those who like to elimate the nervous strain of speed, there is nothing like a canoe. May they return to Addison and viciniy on the Canisteo River.

National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

Official reports from Washington record a new peak in the number of peace-time Federal job-holders.

During the month of May, the records show, almost 5,000 new names were written on the public payroll. This brought the total to 840,159—a throng exceeded only during the emergency of a World War.

And, of course, the total of paychecks rose proportionately.

All this is obviously tough on the public—which must pay the bills—but it's a great help to many of the appointed Bureaucrats.

Why?

Because it was the Bureaucrats—the appointed heads of the countless new boards and bureaus and commissions now overwhelming Washington, who demanded this increased spending of the people's money—and who put their demands across.

Many leading Senators and Representatives have, in recent weeks, emphatically opposed continued extravagance. The White House has promised economies. But the Bureaucrats realize that without lavish spending their growth must cease. And Bureaucracy seems determined to expand.

Growing armies of job-holders are, of course, only one element of the Bureaucrats' steady drain on the public purse. New and costly and spreading activities into all possible fields create still other burdens for taxpayers to shoulder. And these burdens will continue to multiply until Congress does the job it was elected to do.

That job is to legislate for the American people who elected them; not for appointed Bureaucrats who seek to enhance their power through a succession of big checks drawn against the people's earnings.

HAYING PROGRESSES

Haying progresses, but considerable first cutting of alfalfa remains to be done in New York state, according to the report of the United States weather bureau at Cornell, given for the week ending July 6.

"Pastures still maintain plenty of feed. Wheat is turning rapidly, and cutting has begun in the extreme southeast. Oats are coming along well, and some buckwheat has been sown. Corn is backward; much of it was planted late, and the weather has been too cold and wet.

"Potatoes are making excellent growth, and beans are doing fairly well. Most fruits are in good condition and are growing rapidly. Sour cherries are coloring fast, and sweet cherries are being marketed".

Things You Should and Should Not Do While Driving a Car

If you were told that you had but three days to live, four at the most, you would not be a normal being if you did not do everything in your power to prolong your stay on earth indefinitely.

Yet this very sentence has been passed on hundreds of our citizens and before the next four days have elapsed, at the very lowest estimate four hundred of us will die, victims of human disregard of our own safety.

In addition to this, hundreds of broken bodies will lie in our hospitals suffering the most agonizing pain, some of them praying for death to release them from their terrible agony.

A horrible picture, you say, yet it is a true one, and if ever a subject deserved serious thought it is this one of the horror on our highways that invariably comes with our national holidays.

And when we stop to think that it is all so unnecessary, that if just a little caution had been used all this death and suffering could have been avoided.

Millions will take to the highways over this week-end. Hundreds will not come back alive. Hundreds of homes will be saddened by the grim hand of death.

Yes, a horrible picture, but one that every motorist should carry with them every minute hat he or she spends on the highways. Remember that the grim spectre of death is riding with you, and while you are riding happily on your way, a crushed and broken body, that just a moment before was just as happy as you, is being lifted from the ruins of an automobile.

Speed, the insane desire of some one to get some place in a hurry, will be the greatest factor in piling up the frightful toll. DRIVE CAREFULLY, remember that no amount of regret can bring back the life that is wiped out in a thoughtless moment. A minute wasted at a railroad crossing is much better than days in a hospital or SUDDEN DEATH.

Horse sense at the wheel is far better than horse power under the hood, plan your trip so as to have plenty of time to drive sanely. Don't think that you are the exception, it can happen to you. In this battle of life speed is the thing that keeps the coroner and the undertaker in the ring..

Here are a few don'ts that may help to keep you out of the hospital or the morgue:

Don't speed you have plenty of time if you think so.
Don't rely to much on your brakes, they may fail you.
Don't depend on the other fellow, he may be depending on you.
Don't race trains to crossings, it may be a tie, if it is YOU LOSE.
Don't pass when your view is obstructed by a curve or a hill, there is always a car coming.
Don't cut in and out of traffic, 25,600 failed while trying last year.
Don't forget that "it can happen to you."
And jus a few DO's that will help you also
BE SURE to take every precaution only fools are reckless.
BE SURE to obey the laws, they were made for your protection.
BE SURE that your car is under ABSOLUTE CONTROL every second. Trees, poles and culverts don't get in front of you, you have to go out of your way to hit them.
BE SURE to consider the other fellow, he is only human and has his faults.
Accidents just don't happen, they can be avoided. Do your share. Drive sanely, and come home happy.
Of course, if you KNOW that you ARE the exception, then disregard his advice, step on it, and you may yet make the headlines in your home town paper as the man who was killed even though he KNEW that "IT COULDN'T HAPPEN TO HIM.

Famous July Floods Are Two Years Old

Two years ago this month most of the residents of the south side of Addison were earthbound. They were cleaning up the mess caused by the flood which inundated Main, Steuben, South and other south side streets.

It was in July, 1935 that torrential rains fell in this vicinity within a few hours and so completely covered the area that the ground could not absorb the large amount of moisture.

Most everyone in the village can remember the difficulty getting about. Each can recall personal experiences which were tragic at the time, but are now to be told with pride or a smile.

So swift did the waters from Tuscarora Creek flow through the village that it was difficult for people to stand unaided in the streets. And with the swirling muddy waters, came a deluge of dirt, stones, wood and other flotsam and jetsam that was left on the streets, lawns, in the cellars and on the first floor rooms of many of the homes here.

Boy Scout Nature Lesson

As we go out one of these beautiful spring mornings and look up at a flood of golden sunlight, it may increase our happiness to remember that God is literally pouring down upon us the unsearchable riches of his universe, for the value of sunlight cannot be measured by any human estimation.

The great scientist, Michael Pupin says: "The rose responds because its body and soul are tuned to the melodies which the glorious sunlight is pouring into its enchanted ear. A star radiating light radiates electrical energy, and therefore throws out to us a part of its own mass—the star is visiting us. "Thu not only our own sun but other great suns are combining to bestow favors and blessings upon mankind.

The story of creation teaches that vegetation was produced before animal life, and if the story were not divinely inspired, we do not know how any one living at the time of the writing of the book of Genesis, with the limited amount of scientific information then available could have given such a scientific account of the various stages in the process of creation. Every living creature in land or sea must have chlorophyll in order to exist. Geology teaches that a great age of vegetable luxuriance has long since passed. The air now contains much less carbonic acid gas, or carbon dioxide, than it once did. This carbon dioxide is the green plant's food, and is available only in sunlight. The giant ferns and luxuriant growths of prehistoric ages reveal the fact that long before modern forms of animal life existed upon the earth, God was storing up in the great coal measures a great supply of heat and light and energy.

Modern civilization is using up at at an ever increasing rate, this vast capital of energy provided for our age, and there is a definite prospect of the exaustion of these supplies.

The carbon dioxide of the air is dissociated by the green leaf through the energy of sunlight, and the leaf retains the carbon, which it adds to the water taken up from the soil by the roots, and thus it makes a substance having an atom of carbon and two of hydrogen and one of oxygen. The more solar energy we capture by means of the green leaf the richer we will be in physical power. The potato is superior to all other known plants for this purpose. The German people have grown potatoes, and obtained extraordinary quantities of starch for power; this they used to their advantage during the World War.

Divine wisdom has devised a beautiful plan in nature for the enrichment of the earth by the rays of the sun. The moon is a dead world because it has no atmosphere but the rays of heat of high refragibility readily passes through our atmosphere, and when they strike the earth, they are changed to rays of low refragibility, and these do not readily escape through the atmosphere into space, and remain to beautify and enrich the earth.

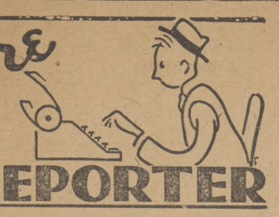
Here and There WITH THE HEALTH REPORTER



Reducing Fads and Fancies

IN this series, I am trying to show that there is, in most cases, a way to reduce and control overweight without danger — and that is through the careful selection of a suitable diet and in conjunction with exercise. This is the only safe way to reduce. There are no magic methods of reducing safely. There are no pills, soaps or electrical or mechanical treatments that can do it without producing results worse than the original condition.

I have known persons who actually used a corrugated rolling pin on their bare and protesting flesh to reduce. I have known persons who took salts and other powerful purgatives. I have even known them to starve themselves voluntarily or live on a little lemon juice for days at a time so as to reduce. These follies are beyond understanding.

Please take careful note of this: There is no way by which weight can be taken off safely without a well-balanced diet and exercise. Moreover, it is dangerous to attempt to lose more than a quarter of a pound a day.

Within recent years, the get-thin-quick diet has forged itself into prominence. You probably remember the sensational "Eighteen Day Hollywood Reducing Diet"—and then with leaps and bounds, another rumor swept like wildfire through the country. That a certain other much-heralded diet had the sanction of the famous Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn. The tale ran that this "get-thin-quick" scheme had been prescribed for a prominent actress with gratifying results. It was necessary for the Mayo Clinic to make a public statement to the effect that "The Mayo Clinic knows nothing regarding this 'eighteen-day diet' and will assume no responsibility whatever for it."

First Wednesday Closing Marked by Rainy Weather

The first Wednesday afternoon for the stores to close during the summer months has passed. And with it went many disappointments on the part of many of the men and their families for it rained so that picnic plans and trips had to be abandoned.

Main street looked deserted thruout most of the afternoon but few places opened for business. It is hoped by the proprietors and clerks, that the coming Wednesday afternoons will offer better weather so that the vacation time can be really enjoyed.

Triple V Picnic is Postponed Until 26

Owing to the absence of so many members of the Triple V Guild, the picnic planned for Monday, July 19, at Goodhue Lake, is postponed until Monday, July 26. At that time all members will meet at the church at 5:30 where they will proceed to Goodhue Lake.

NEWSPAPER HONESTY

Many factors enter into the making of a newspaper, whether it be large or small, and the excellence of the finished product naturally depends to a large extent upon the opportunities which its field offers to the editor.

But there is one fundamental quality which is important to every newspaper, regardless of its size, and that is honesty of expression. Commenting on thi point some time ago, the Montgomery Advertiser said:

"What counts in judging the character of a newspaper is whether it reasons with intellectual honesty in arriving at its conclusions, or makes an appeal to prejudices and emotions in order to influence the reading public to accept its opinions. We may add that every editor [illegible]uently faces the necessity of [illegible]ing a decision on this very [illegible]t. It is easy to tell the reader [illegible]t he wants to hear, to ake the popular ide, to run with the pack. But it takes courage sometimes to express an oppinion, however sound in opposition to the prevailing sentiment. But in such a case, no editor worthy of his responsible calling ever hesitates. He gives his honest opinions, regardless of who agrees or disagrees with them.

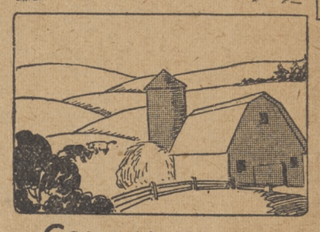
TO STIMULATE MOTOR SALES POLAND IS ALLOWING TAXPAYERS $1900 EXEMPTION FROM THEIR ASSESSABLE INCOME IF THEY BECOME AUTO OWNERS BEFORE 1938 !



STOVES ARE NOW BEING BUILT WITH RADIOS IN THEM.

GROSS INCOME OF FARMERS FOR 1932 WAS $5,300,000,000 AND FOR 1936 $8,500,000,000 !

How, What and Why

This paper has arranged with the Office of information of the New York State college of agriculture and home economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

Jam from Raspberries

H. C. B. asks if over-ripe red raspberries can be made into jam without the use of commercial pectin.

The answer from the New York State College of Home Economics: "A recipe for rasberry jam made with tart apple juice is given in Cornell bulletin E-267. This receipe can be used for over-ripe berries, but all decayed fruit should, of course, be discarded and special precautions taken in sterilizing and sealing the jars.

"Since apple juice is sometimes hard to get during the berry season, slightly under-ripe currants or gooseberries may be used in combination with the raspberries. Many persons also add, for flavor, a little lemon juice to jam made with over-ripe fruit."

Flies on cattle

C. G. D. writes: "We always have a lot of trouble with flies on cattle in summer, and have heard that you have a good formula to control the flies. Will you send me a list of ingredients and how to mix them. I would like to mix 20 gallons at a time."

K. L. Turk of the animal husbandry department replies: "I have sent you a leaflet which gives a formula for several fly sprays. In addition to these fly repellents, another formula recently recommended by the California Experiment Station seems to be a good one.

"Using this formula for 20 gallons at a time, you will need two and one-half quarts each of petroleum oil, pine oil, and pyrethrum extract and one and one-half quarts of diglycol oleate. Dilute these ingredients slowly with eight parts of water, or 71 quarts in this case. Agitate the mixture vigorously as the ingredients are added.

"There is little experimental evidence, however to indicate that any fly spray is very efficient in killing flies. The most that can be expected is a repellent effect for the first hour or so. One of the biggest advantages in spraying is that it does keep the cows quiet during milking."

The use of bakers bread increased 42 per cent as the population of the United States increased only 16 per cent in 1929.

BRASS TACKS For POULTRY RAISERS

By BURTON P. THARP

CROPBOUND BIRDS

One of the common ailments of birds particularly if they have access to long grass or straw is the lodging of such coarse dry material in the passage of the crop leading to the digestive system. When this condition arises the bird is said to be cropbound..

A fowl that is cropbound is readily noticed because of the fact that the accumulation of food in the crop causes it to become enlarged.

Many poultry raisers kill the birds and dress them when this condition appears. Of course they are good for meat because they are not diseased. If nothing is done the bird may starve anyway.

The bird may be a good pullet or a valuable specimen and in such a case there are two ways in which it can be saved—massage or a simple operation which anyone can perform..

Take the bird from the flock and try the first method. Sometimes the condition can be corrected with little trouble. Massage the crop with the fingers particularly near the lower passage and try to loosen the material in it. Take away all food for the remainder of the day. Many times this treatment is effective and the afflicted bird may be placed with the flock again the next day.

If the first treatment is not effective and the bird is no better the following day an operation should be performed and the material removed from the crop. The operation is very simple.

Tie the bird to a table or board on its back. Wet the skin at the crop where the cut is to be made with a solution of one part carbolic acid to twenty parts of water. With a razor blade or very sharp knife make a cut near the upper part of the crop about one inch long. Do not cut through the crop at this point.

Using the fingers move the incision an inch or more to one side and cut the crop open about one inch. Reach in with the fingers, tweezers or some blunt instrument and remove the contents carefully.

Rinse with clean, warm water then sew the cut in the crop together with ordinary white thread. Permit the cut in the outside skin to slide back to its natural position and sew the cut up. In this way the cuts are not together and will not form an adhesion.

The bird may then be released and given water. Wet mash may be given at night and for the next day or two after which the bird should be none the worse for his experience and may be returned to the flock.

The operation does not seem to be painful and the birds operated upon do not seem to be distressed afterward. Anddoctor, the scar doesn't show a bit!

BASEBALL TRACK RACING GOLF

SPORTS ON PARADE

by Leo Bolley

WILL the Gold Cup of the American Power Boat Association return to New York State this year?

That's doubtful, but yet it is possible. This year's 90-mile race at Detroit on Sept. 6 for America's oldest and greatest motorboat prize may be the most brilliant international event ever staged in the sport for it is open to foreign boats for the first time.

Count Theo Rossi, the Italian vermouth king, is bringing over three new 12-liter Gold Cup boats, one of them to be driven by Guido Cattaneo, holder of the world record of 85.51 miles per hour in this class. Three French boats are coming and also Miss Canada II, the new speedster of E. A. Wilson, of Ingersoll, Ont. Against the foreign invaders, the Americans have a possible fleet of ten new and old boats.

New York will be represented by Mr. and Mrs. John M. L. Rutherfurd, and possibly the veteran champion, George Reis of Lake George will attempt a comeback.

In the ten sanctioned regattas being held by Commodore Pat Patterson's new New York State Power Boat Racing Association and the glamorous intercollegiate outboard championships at Saratoga June 26-28, the Empire State is enjoying its greatest boat racing season.

A ball fan asked me the other day what has happened to Ty Cobb, the Georgia Peach who blazoned his name across the sport pages of history. Cobb is living the life of a country gentleman near San Francisco. He spends a good deal of his time in fishing and he has money enough to provide for all his wants.

Though baseball salaries were low when Cobb was the mightiest man in the game, he made smart investments and retired a millionaire.

Cobb's records still stand up to prove his prowess. No fan can ever forget the 24 glorious years during which he was a towering figure in the sport. His batting average was .367 for those two dozen years. The Georgia Peach played 3,033 games, scored 2,244 runs, knocked out 4,191 base hits, was the batting champion for 12 years, and, besides, was the greatest base stealer of all time with a record for pilfering 892 bags. Very grand larceny.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the world champion New York Yankees, never played in the major leagues . . . The ambition of Dick Bartell, dashing shortstop of the Giants, is to make an unassisted triple play . . . Only seven such plays have been completed in the history of the game . . . Dizzy Dean throws his fast ball and curve without contacting his fingers at the seam.

Jack Lovelock, the great Oxford miler, has another sport as a sideline, and, of all things, it's boxing! You'd never think that a man who can run as fast as Jack would ever need to know how to box.

College students have a good four months vacation in the summertime, but that doesn't apply to those in athletics. Take Yale, for instance. During the holidays, the members of at least eight Eli teams will see action in various intercollegiate and national championships. This month, July and August, will see Yale, and other colleges, too, represented by teams or individuals in rowing, fencing, yachting, polo, track, golf, lacrosse and tennis.

Sacred Document

By George B. Winrod

I was in Washington, D. C. a few days ago. For years, I have made it a practice, when visiting the Nation's Capital, to always step over to the Congressional Library building and look at a certain object which is sacred to the heart of every true patriot.

As you enter the front door of the Library you are greeted by a courteous guard, garbed in a bright uniform.

Take a few steps to the right; step inside of a marble rail, and there you will see, in a golden case, what has been aptly called the American "Ark of the Covenant". Hundreds of people visit this famous place every day.

A feeling of awe instinctively settles down upon the visitor as he approaches the marble rail and looks into the famous glass case. But why this feeling?

Because, behind this rail in a dustproof cabinet under a yellow tinted glass may be sen a document composed of 4,259 words; a document which bears the signature of 39 men; a document which was written in the year 1787.

This document is the original copy of the Constitution of the United States. Its pages are somewhat faded, but it still deals with principles which are eternal—principles which reach to the very soul of humanity.

In front of this golden, dustproof cabinet, there is a small praying-stool; this article of worship is also made of solid marble. Thousands of pious people kneel at this spot every year to express heartfelt thanks for the personal liberties which they are permitted to enjoy under the constitution.

Many straight thinking people know that this document has given the American people more liberty for a greater period of time than any other nation in the world has ever enjoyed.

It is the constitution, with its system of "checks and balances", that divides our national government into three divisions. The first division is the Legislative Branch, or the Congress and Senate. The second division is the Executive Branch, or the Presidency. The third division is the Judicial Branch or the Supreme Court.

The wise men who wrote the constitution feared that some day a man, obsessed with "delusions of grandeur", might appear on the scene and thirsting for power, try to set up some kind of a dictatorship— a dictatorship in which the personal liberties of the people would be destroyed.

So these men worked out a symmetric plan, a system of "checks and balances", whereby all three branches of the national government—Legislative, Executive and Judicial, would be forever compelled to cooperate with each other and thus work together in harmony.

But we must remember that that piece of parchment under the yellow glass in the golden case yonder in the Congressional Library building of Washington, D. C., can not enforce itself. Its existence depends upon the will of the people to hold it inviolate.

Facts on marketing apples in the Champlain Valley are given in Cornell bulletin P-669. Single copies are available free to residents of New York state and may be had from the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, New York.

Bovee Outlines Bicycle Laws

Bicycle riders will come under the jurisdiction of the Motor Vehicle Laws and bureau beginning October 1, 1937.

This means that bicyles, which have not had classification, will hereafter be known as vehicles. Effective October 1, all bicycles must be equipped with brakes, steering mechanism sufficient to control the wheels, a horn or bell to be used as a warning signal, a front and rear reflector. The reflectors must be visible at 200 feet and the light shall be visible 500 feet ahead of the vehicle.. The light shall be displayed the same as motor cars, from one half-hour after sunset until one half hour after sunrise. .

No riders will be permitted on the handle bars or in front of the driver. This same shall apply to all motorcycles which must be equipped with a seat in the rear of the driver or side car for a second person, and there must be handles and a footrest for said passenger, according to the new law.

No bicycles are permitted on a sidewalk when propelled by an adult or anyone over 10 years of age. Special license is given children under 10. These laws will be enforced locally according to Elmer Bovee. He asks the cooperation of local people in enforcing these laws and believes observances of these rules now would make for easier enforcement and observance when the law becomes mandatory.

FARM HELP NEEDED

The New York state employment bureaus are seeking men to help harvest the state fruit crop. There is a general shortage of agricultural help in all sections of the state and it is feared this may materially reduce the bumper crops expected this season in fruits and vegetables.

Sherwood and Taylor Decline Nominations

onded by Harry Laffkas. There was some question as to the eligibility of Miss Curtis owing to the provisions of the law being understood here to read, "property owners or parents with children in school only are eligible to be on the board and vote in school districts". And to the best of the knowledge of those present, Miss Curtis did not come within these provisions.

Mrs. Maude Chart was nominated by Ralph B. Dykins and Beldon Ackerson was nominated by Maurice E. Miller to continue a rural resident on the board. There were no other nominations. The secretary was instructed to prepare the ballots for the public voting Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Hubbs asked why it was not possible to hold the annual school meeting and the annual school election at the same time. There was considerable discussion of this proposal, which was finally put in the form of a resolution by Willis Colburn. The resolution authorized the Board of Education to make an investigation of the possibilities of the proposal and to report at the next annual meeting and if the board did not or could not take action, the matter was to be submitted at the next annual election.

Rev. Withey Is Transferred To Belmont

Chrysostom in Delafield, Wis. It was here that he served in various community activities. A Boy Scout unit was organized in the church. He here continued the Boy Scout work he had begun in England when Scouting was first organized.

Father Withey served in Delafield until called to become vicar of the Chapel of the Redeemer. Since coming here he has had additional church honors in being made Dean of the Arch Diocese in 1935. And for three years he has been called to preach in the college of Preachers, Washington. This is a national honor. Diocesan honors have been accorded him by his being elected to the executive council of the diocese and to the board of missions.

In local activities Father Withey has long been active in the Advertising Club of Addison, the Red Cross of which he is chairman and in the Boy Scouts of which he is district commissioner in charge of eight troops. Summers he has been councillor at St. Albans Camp for boys at Keene, N. Y.

The Rev. Withey married Miss Alma Franke, in Kenosha, Wis., February 2, 1933. Prior to her marriage she was a registered nurse and at the time of her marriage was a member of the Visiting Nurse Association of Milwaukee, doing social service work and speaking to community and fraternal groups.

Mrs. Withey has been active in the young peoples organizations of the church. She heads the Girls' Friendly Society and is interested in the affairs of the Women's Auxiliary and has done a great deal of social service work among the people of Addison and the parish.

The Rev. and Mrs. Withey plan to leave Addison for Belmont the week of August 16. Dean Withey will preach his valedictory sermon in the Chapel of the Redeemer Sunday, August 15 and his initial sermon in Belmont, Sunday, August 22.

He has the good wishes of a large group of parishioners and friends from Addison and vicinity in his new charge and they congratulate him on his advancement.

Village Board Discusses Fire Companies and Floods

ing and he was asked to present a formal request for the Welles truck to the board members, as Mayor Sisto told him he had not the authority to loan the truck. Mr. Aldrich said if any truck was left in Addison it should be the pumper and the members of his company had no uniforms to present any appearance when marching.

Trustee Allen said the matter of who should go should be left in the hands of the fire chief. Chief O'Keefe said, "I'm out of this". Mayor Sisto suggested it be left to the Chief and Assistant Chief to decide the matter. Mr. O'Keefe said it is up to the Village Board. "Let them vote on it", he said. Mayor Sisto said the matter could not be settled until there was a full board and that would not be until the August meeting. Mr. Aldrich then offered the flip of the coin solution and called heads and the coin, tossed by Mayor Sisto and borrowed from Mr. Clark, came tails. The decision was agreeable to all. And that problem was solved.

Forrest Herrington, present for the Phoenix men, told the trustees that he was no longer in business for himself and asked if he should continue servicing the fire trucks. He was given that permission. One of the Phoenix men spoke about securing a pulmoter for the local department to use in emergencies. Mr. Allen said it would take a magician to operate it and an experienced operator would have to be on hand at all times.

Charles Vose appeared before the Board members to ask for a room in the city hall for his adult recreational program at night. The only room available was the board room, which is also used by the band and WPA. He told the board members he has the playground activities daytimes and would like to continue photography and other classes at night and to continue his program until school opened in the fall. He was given permission to have the room on nights when the board or band was not in session.

Ernest Sareen, long a storm center in board circles, appeared to ask board action on a neighbor's digging a ditch which poured water, rock and dirt into Mr. Sareen's cellar and garden. Board members will inspect the damage and property Saturday morning.

Mayor Sisto then addressed the board on the matter of village finances. He said the recent floods would cost the village about $800. The bridge over the reservoir creek had to be rebuilt for the fourth time in his administration and measures had been taken to build walls leading to the bridge to prevent future washouts.

He said the village should try to get away without oiling streets this summer if possible to use that money for this flood work. If not the village will go into debt, for the usual oiling costs about $1,000.

It is his intention to secure a steam roller and road equipment to repair upper Steuben street.

Mayor Sisto told the members o[illegible] the board that he has a buyer fo[illegible] the piles in the school yard. Th[illegible] piles were intended for the ri[illegible] dike job. He was authorized to g[illegible] a good price for them and comple[illegible] the sale to the best advantage [illegible] the village.

Talking Session Ends With Score 15-11

After a great deal of talking back and forth, the softball game between the North and South sides was played last Friday night with disastrous results to the prestige of the South Siders. The boys from the high side of the town had not been telling of their prowess but had been letting the boys from down under do the talking, which was loud and long.

But when the struggle was on, it was soon determined who was the best team, for the North Siders won by a score of something like 15 to 11. There may be a difference of a few points in either score but the general result would be the same.

Spectators said it was the best talking game they had heard in some time and Umpire Wildrick was hard put to keep the peace. Judging by the noise that came from the field, it was at first thought the CIO and Union were having a battle royal on the Addison High School grounds. The teams will meet again to talk it over.
